WHAT IS TINYA HIDING?!

Legion Records Confirm Secret Wedding Following Torrid Affair With Star Boy

Apparently this reporter is hitting a little too close to home as far as Legionnaire Phantom Girl is concerned.

After refusing to answer my questions for weeks about her previous secret marriage to Ultra Boy and her upcoming official ceremony to make-it all on the up-and-up, little Tinya has run to the Daily Plant-It saying she and U-Boy will walk down the aisle in June, for the first time. Right. And I'm still sweet 16.

For some strange reason, Tinya still hasn't answered my questions about those persistent reports that she and U-Boy secretly tied the knot many years

Legion Couple to Wed

EARTH -- Jo Nah of Rimbor and Tinya Wazzo of Bgtzl have announced their plans to wed June 9 on Deltwan.

The Bride is the daughter of WinemaTinya Wazzo, a prominent Bgtzlr attorney and leading authority on privacy law and stepdaughter of attorney Khard Wlessey. The groom is the son of Crav Nah and the late Mytra Nah, agri-engineers on Rimbor.

Both the bride and the groom are longtime members of the Legion of Super-Heroes, and Nah has served two half-year terms as that group's leader. Their secondary and advanced schooling was conducted primarily at the Legion Academy in its days as an exclusively academic institution.

Both have regularly supported numerous charity drives. Wazzo currently serves as honorary chair of the Friend In Need Foundation, which operates shelters for runaways, the Superboy Scholastic Foundation, and the Intergalactic Heart Fund. Nah is spokesman for Straight Buddies of Rimbor.

EARTH -- Not just any Thom, Dirk or Harry will be on hand when Tinya Wazzo and Jo Nah take their vows June 9 at the Prism Cliff Chapel on Deltwan. Tinya and her ultra-groom-to-be Jo have sent out the invites and they tell me "intimate" will be the watchword for these historic nuptials. If you're not a current or former Legionnaire, family member or bosom buddy of the couple, you'll just have to watch the holos.

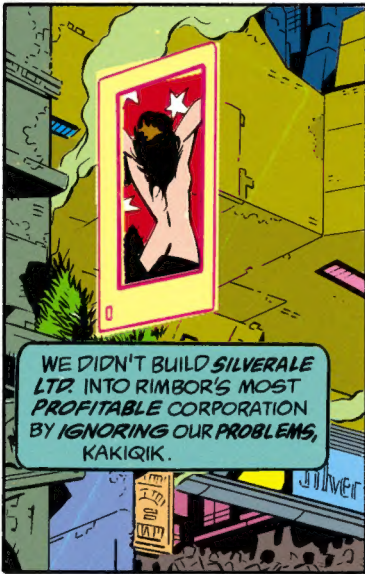

Tinya and Jo will, however, make a brief appearance before their legion of fans, as they motorcade down to their reception blaster at the Crystal Beach Marina.

And what lucky fashion designer is going to see his business shift into hyper-drive when his gown graces the lovely bride? It's Arn Strikl, who's come up with a flowing cream-colored silk stunner trimmed in violet-blue lace. The hooded two-piecer is sure to set trends through the next millennium, especially with the blushing Tinya showing it off.

The bride-to-be tells me a traditional Earth style wedding is her choice, with her ex-Legionnaire confidante Tasmia Mallor serving as matron of honor. Longtime Legion advisor and Brande Enterprises exec Marla Latham will give Tinya away, with Reep Daggles taking a break from his Brande chores to serve as best man. Cuties Grahym and EARTH -- Tinya Wazzo, "Phantom Girl" of the Legion of Super-Heroes, has been officially declared dead by the Science Police. The announcement came this morning, after a lengthy investigation into her disappearance turned up no evidence that she survived a freak breakup of interdimensional space.

Wazzo was lost April 12 while traveling alone from her other-dimensional home world, Bgtzl, to Earth. Scientific observers believe the "fabric" of the interdimensional gulf between Bgtzl and Earth was suddenly, inexplicably ripped apart during Wazzo's journey, killing the Legionnaire.

The case has drawn widespread attention, particularly since Wazzo recently announced her engagement to fellow Legionnaire Jo Nah, culminating a romance that dates back to their teen years together in the Legion.

SP Officer Roon Dvron, who headed the investigation, told the Daily Planet, "We haven't found any traces of the body, so there's no absolute proof Tinya died. But unfortunately, there's also no evidence at all that suggests she could have survived this kind of disaster."

The announcement brought an outpouring of tributes from dignitaries and heroes throughout the known universes. Bgtzl Premier Ggleo Whyka issued a statement praising Wazzo as "the greatest daughter of Bgtzl...a champion whose nobility touched every Bgtzlr heart." United Planets Council President E.E.G. Krevoy Zaxton declared Wazzo to be "a hero of every world and an inspiration to every soul." Legion leader Dirk Morgna called Wazzo "one of the greatest Legionnaires of them all, a hero who could never be replaced."

Whyka declared a planetwide day of mourning on Bgtzl, and Zaxton has ordered all official U.P. facilities to fly the black flags of mourning in Wazzo's memory during a thousand-hour commemoration starting at dawn Monday. A week of memorial observances has been scheduled by her family on Bgtzl, and a Legion ceremony in her memory is planned on Shanghalla.

Among Legionnaires, Wazzo had served the longest consecutive term. Wazzo's presumed death would mark the seventh passing of an active Legionnaire, but the first to occur outside the line of duty. Active Legionnaires who've been killed in action include Garth Ranzz of Winath (since revived), Luornu Durgo of Cargg (whose third body has survived), Andrew Nolan of Earth, Lyle Norg of Earth, Condo Arlik of Phlon, Pol Krinn of Braal, and Lar Gand of Daxam.

Heroes killed after having resigned from the Legion include Kal-El of Krypton (the legendary other-dimensional hero Superboy) and Val Armorr of Earth.

Sources inside the Legion and the SP say Wazzo's disappearance has heightened tensions between the Legion and government bodies on Earth, especially Science Police Earth. A high-ranking officer with the U.P.-wide SP confirmed that Wazzo's fiancé, Jo Nah, insisted that the investigation be taken out of the hands of the SPE and turned over to the SP Proper. The progress of the investigation was undoubtedly impeded by the political tensions between the splinter SPE and the SP Proper, the source said.

Wazzo's disappearance has apparently done significant additional damage to Legion morale at a time when the group faces an increasingly hostile local government and wavering public opinion. Nah is expected to exit the group, and several other members are believed to be badly shaken by the tragedy.

Wazzo was born on Bgtzl, local date 239:04:16 (giving her a chronological age at death of about 32 Earth years), the second child of prominent attorney Winema Tinya Wazzo and Melgman Institute professor Byzin Wazzo.

At the age of 15, Tinya Wazzo stowed away aboard a Bgtzlr freighter and journeyed to Earth. Though she initially became involved in the Meglaro-Landro spy ring, she quickly broke up an arm of that organization and applied for membership to the Legion.

She was the fifth Legionnaire, behind the three founders Rokk Krinn, Imra Ardeen, and Garth Ranzz, and Luornu Durgo, who was sworn in with Wazzo as the first additions to the group's charter trio.
